The Disciplined Agile (DA) mindset is captured in the form of principles, promises, and guidelines. Disciplined “agilists” believe in the DA principles, so we promise to adopt these behaviors and follow these guidelines when doing so. There is a purpose for each aspect of the mindset:

- Principles: The principles provide a philosophical foundation for business agility. They are based on both lean and flow concepts.
- Promises: The promises are agreements that we make with our fellow teammates, our stakeholders, and other people within our organization whom we interact with. The promises define a collection of disciplined behaviors that enable us to collaborate effectively and professionally.
- Guidelines: These guidelines help us to be more effective in our way of working (WoW) and in improving our WoW over time.

This comprehensive training introduces leading agile and lean approaches like Scrum, Kanban, SAFe® and more that frees you from any single agile framework and opens your options. While this course provides an opportunity to certify as a DA Scrum Master, the skills learned are valuable to any team member. Filled with activities, animations, supplemental reading, and more, this course will prepare you to take the DASM exam and start using Disciplined Agile immediately.
